EPOQUE HOTELS

Hotel Las Casas del Rey de Baeza Epoque Classic Superior

In a city made famous by stereotypes of hot-blooded inhabitants and fiery passions, the Casas del Rey de Baeza shows a reserved, sophisticated side of Seville. Amalgamating the best elements of Arabic and European design that have influenced the Andalusian capital over centuries, Casas del Rey de Baeza is a contemporary fusion of past and present. Bright, whitewashed walls blend with the ochre and reds of southern Spain in the hotel's courtyards, shaded by arcaded walkways, which tempt guests into secret conspiratorial moments. Indoors, cool stone flooring and natural tones lead into the 41 guestrooms, where a gracious modernity takes over. Dark chocolate-coloured furnishings, sisal mats, over-sized floor cushions and soft lighting take the scene in interiors reminiscent of chic, urban apartments. Plunge into the rooftop pool, chill-out in the living room or browse the library. The Casas del Rey de Baeza is another corner of this fascinating city that will reward careful exploration.
